The four grade schools play every Thursday noon, shifting the games between school grounds.
Flag-football is played on a 60-yard field, a team being given five downs in which to make the length of the gridiron.
The "flag" is a handkerchief tucked under each boy's shirt at the rear — and when an opponent snatches the handkerchief the play is considered to be tackled.
The Star's editor reports it is no chore to make grade school football pictures — but rounding up all the names to go with the pictures is a full day's grind. It took the combined faculties and school bodies of all four institutions to get these cutlines correct — if they are.

No Incidents Today in Little Rock Case

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An escort of soldiers encountered no trouble today in taking nine Negro students into Central High School for a 10th day of integrated classes.

About 100 white students were massed before the front entrance of the school. Three or four of them displayed small Confederate flags but there was none of the shouting or jeering that marked the last two days.

All the Negroes were present today. Yesterday one of the six Negro girls was absent because of illness.

Sixteen rifle-carrying National Guardsmen escorted the Negroes halfway across the campus. There four regular Army paratroopers met the Negroes and took them the rest of the way into the school.

There was no sign of the 75 white students who walked out of Central High yesterday in what was scheduled as a mass demonstration but turned out to be a flop. They were either absent today or else inside seeking to make their peace with school officials, who had threatened them all with suspension.

Opposing sides were still deadlocked today in their efforts to solve the integration crisis. No one had come up with a plan under which federal troops might be removed.

NEW YORK (AP) — "The four people are a great part of my life," said actress June Havoc, who keeps and is "consoled by seven dogs and two cats."
"They are my companions," she said, "and with them when there were no 'skin people' — no children, no my own dog — around to play with. Therefore, the fur people have been a great part of my life, and still are."

Teamsters Pick Hoffa, Probers Seek Records

Credentials of Handpicked Delegates Asked

MIAMI BEACH (UP) — The Senate Labor Rackets Committee today served a subpoena on the Teamsters Union demanding records of the credentials committee which screened delegates who elected James R. Hoffa their new president.

A subpoena for the minutes and other documents of the credentials group was served on Joseph Konow of New York City, its secretary.

The committee seated 1,753 delegates despite the Senate group's charges that more than half of the delegates were not selected in accordance with the union's constitution.

Delegates from about two-thirds of the 60 locals which the Senate committee said it has definite evidence of union improprieties were seated at the convention. About 45 delegates were refused seats by the credentials group, another 50 withdrew and 24 did not show up.

Gerald Treanor, house counsel for the Teamsters, told United Press-A subcommittee was served on Konow. Treanor said the union would comply and turn over the records demanded.

Scouting Here in Need of Financial Aid

The story of Boy Scouting in this area and the Caddo Area Council was presented Thursday night to a group of Hope business men who attended a dinner meeting at the Barlow Hotel.

Mannie Stevens and Carroll Wheeler presented the program with a lecture and posters. Mr. Wheeler emphasized that "America's real strength is in the boys of our community and our Nation. We must develop their character and citizenship through fun, camping and association with other boys," he said.

Mr. Wheeler emphasized the need for a professional staff in the Council to build and maintain Scouting standards. Under professional guidance, boy membership in Scouting has jumped from 2,480 in 1950 to 4,689 in 1957.

The Council's goal by 1960 is set at 8,000 boys. Over 12,000 boys in the 10 counties that make up the Caddo Area Council are walking away without Scouting because of insufficient funds to operate the council.

The council budget for 1958 calls for $47,000 if the council is to break even.

With three troops now operating in Hope along with 1 Cub Pack, one Negro Troop and Negro Pack and an Explorer Post in the making, Hope has an obligation to do its part financially in this year's campaign.

Hope has always been most generous in giving to the cause of Scouting and with the increase in Scouting activity in Hope, the people are expected to be even more generous.

The annual campaign kicks-off next Thursday morning.

Asian Flu Cases Nearly Double

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asian flu cases nearly doubled again last week, going up by an estimated 200,000 new cases to make a total of 422,550 since early June.

Reporting this today, the Public Health Service said the estimates were based on incomplete reports.

A spokesman pointed out also that the reports cover the period only through last Saturday. Thus, they do not include outbreaks this week such as 150,000 new cases among New York City school children.

The spokesman also said 19 deaths have been reported in the continental United States in connection with the flu outbreak; 13 in Puerto Rico; 7 in Hawaii and 2 in Alaska.

The weekly disease summary of the Health Service said the number of cases of influenza and influenza-like disease continued to increase in most parts of the United States last week.

Students in Poland Riot Against Reds

WARSAW (AP) — The first demonstration against Poland's leader since Wladyslaw Gomułka came to power exploded yesterday into a battle between Warsaw students and riot police backed by worker militia.

Communist tear gas and truncheons finally drove the last of 2,000 angry youths into a student boarding house and order was restored. Several students were arrested.

The trouble began when the students gathered outside Warsaw Polytechnic School to protest a government order closing their weekly anti-Stalinist paper "Prostus" (Straight On).

As Communist party secretary, Gomułka had chartered a more moderate course after taking over 12 months ago following the "bread and freedom" uprising of workers in Poznan. But the government ruled the student paper's attacks on Stalinism had gone too far.

The students gathered at Narutowicz Square in the evening. They jeered as the police lined up around the square.

The police marched shoulder to shoulder with the students. First fights broke out. The police attacked with truncheons.

"We want gas," the students yelled sarcastically. The police obliged by throwing tear gas grenades. The 2,000 students broke and ran.

An hour later, about 500 students massed on the steps of a boarding house near the Polytechnic school.

"Gestapo, Gestapo," they shouted as the police approached. The police again laid down a tear gas barrage. The students fled into the boarding house.

Factory militia — armed workers units established by the government to cope with such public disturbances — then arrived, provoking another outbreak of fighting and another gas attack by the police. By midnight, five hours after the first trouble broke out, quiet was restored.

Warsaw radio said college authorities would take severe measures against the participants.

Girl Student Says She Was Held by FBI

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Annette Harper, a peppery 15-year-old blonde, stuck by her story today that the FBI had held her "incommunicado" for 4½ hours in questioning her about integration trouble at Central High School.

Annette identified herself as one of the unnamed girls who Gov. Orval Faubus in a recent television address said were held incommunicado by the FBI. She named herself as she was arguing with a National Guardsman yesterday. She had joined 63 other students at the school in a walk-out which they had hoped would inspire a mass protest against troop-enforced integration of nine Negroes.

Joseph C. Casper, FBI agent in charge at Little Rock, denied the girl had been held incommunicado. He said Annette and another student, Beverly Burks, 14, were questioned for about an hour Sept. 7 but their mothers knew about it.

Annette said the FBI agents had promised to call her home but had failed to do it.

Mrs. Kenneth Harper, Annette's mother, said she was angry because she had told her daughter not to go with the agents to their office. Mrs. Maxine Burks said she was "sick and tired of this whole thing" and added she wasn't very pleased about the FBI interview.

Casper said agents called Mrs. Harper who told them the girls were at a beauty parlor. Casper said agents waited an hour at the beauty parlor because it was "impossible to conduct the interview" there, and then took the girls to the FBI office.

Casper insisted that the girls twice declined offers to call home. He said they were questioned after William J. Smith, an attorney for Faubus, furnished the names of 10 students who might have information about the integration crisis.

Churches Urge Reconciliation in Dispute

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Forty-five ministers, with encouragement from both President Eisenhower and Gov. Orval Faubus, are urging a "ministry of reconciliation" in an attempt to settle the integration dispute here.

The preachers asked all churches in Arkansas to join in special services at 11 a. m. on Oct. 12 to pray for a solution to the racial crisis.

The Rt. Rev. Robert R. Brown, Episcopal bishop of Arkansas, read letters endorsing the proposals from the President, Gov. Faubus and the Little Rock School Board.

Eisenhower's letter to the bishop expressed the hope that the ministers "will be able not only to lead disregard the enticements of agitators but will join in support of the law the preservation of our country and the institutions of government under which it lives."

Faubus wrote that he believed the ministers were taking "the proper approach at this time."

Bishop Brown said no Negro ministers were invited to yesterday's meeting but that Negro churches would be invited to participate.

Union Defies Everyone, Elects Branded Leader

By WILLIAM J. EATON
UP Staff Correspondent

MIAMI BEACH (UP) — A rooming convention voted James R. Hoffa into the presidency of the big International Teamsters Union today in defiance of the AFL-CIO, the courts and Senate investigators.

"The 5-foot, 5-inch Hoffa prepared to take over the $50,000-a-year post as head of the nation's largest union immediately."

Outgoing Teamsters boss, Dave Beck of Seattle obtained, "for the best interests of the union," a leave of absence beginning Oct. 15. He officially steps into retirement at $50,500 a year on Dec. 1.

Hoffa, in fact, however, has been in control of the 1,400,000-member truckers union since top officers gathered here two weeks ago to prepare for the convention. Not once were any of his suggestions voted down in committee meetings or convention sessions.

From the moment the shouting stomping delegates rallied around his banner by the hundreds in the first convention session last Monday, election of the midwestern Teamsters boss from Detroit to the union's top job never appeared to be in doubt. His four opponents rapidly dwindled until there was only resistance from two as the balloting began.

By JIM THOMASSON

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — James R. Hoffa threw the Teamsters convention machinery into "high gear today" to take over control of the giant labor union for a coming battle with the AFL-CIO. Election of the Midwest Teamster boss from Detroit to the first ballot today to succeed retiring President Dave Beck appeared almost certain.

In a sudden move made yesterday, the decks were cleared for Hoffa to take over the presidency Oct. 15, a month and a half before Beck's term expires Dec. 1.

Earlier, Hoffa had told newsmen, "We will fight to remain in the AFL-CIO." He made it clear he will challenge AFL-CIO President George Meany in Meany's own backyard over an ultimatum to the Teamsters to get rid of corrupt influences or face expulsion from the labor combine.

Beck, Hoffa and two other Teamster officials are charged with various counts of misconduct, including misuse of union funds, by the AFL-CIO and the Senate Rackets Committee.

Hoffa plans to carry an aggressive defense to local labor federation from coast to coast, many of which are Teamster strongholds. He said the Wayne County ready has asked the AFL-CIO to Continued on Page Two

"At 3 I went into films, and at 3½ the legitimate theater," she recalled.

"I have been thrown with older folks so much that today I can sit around with people of 65 or 70 and pop the cork as well as if I were one of them."

"Actors lead a life most people could never stand. They're always in and out of the freezer. They have a few low moments. Moments when nobody wants them. Moments that can annihilate."

June, who is featured tomorrow night on Ed Murrow's CBS network program, "Person to Person," isn't in the freezer at the moment. She is writing her autobiography and rehearsing for a new Broadway comedy called, "One Foot in the Door."

"It feels wonderful," said June, who always keeps her sprangles ready to hit the night club circuit when no suitable film or stage roles are on her horizon. "But I'm no idiot. I know I'll be back in the freezer again."

Miss Havoc, who never went to school a day in her life, is proud of the fact that single-handed she has written down the story of her early struggles.

June also has the pride in her profession that marks the true craftsman, and this is her goal: "I want to stay out of the ice box, to be independent enough to say at 85, 'I do want that role' or 'I don't want that role'... and to die with my makeup on."

President Eisenhower in an unsuccessful effort to solve the problem, simply said:

"We've got to have a few days to let this thing cool off."

The nine Negroes entered the school Sept. 25 under guard of federal troops flown here under orders of Eisenhower. Paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division used bayonets to break up crowds of white demonstrators. That was the last of the demonstrations until yesterday's student walkout attempt.

Inside the school yesterday, highly trained paratroopers of the 101st took over again from National Guardsmen.

This military change apparently took place because while students roughed up some of the Negro students in the two previous days, Guardsmen remained on duty on the campus.

School authorities said no corridor trouble developed yesterday. Only eight Negroes attended—one girl was ill.

Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus, accused by Eisenhower and others of inciting segregationists when he stationed the National Guard—then under the governor's control—at Central High Sept. 2, continued to receive ovations from crowds of Americans.

He was greeted with rousing cheers yesterday as he rode in a parade opening the National Cotton Picking Contest in Blytheville, Ark.

The governor, in a press meeting, stood by his earlier position that he had given sufficient assurances to Eisenhower after the working out of a compromise plan for removal of federal troops.

Eisenhower has maintained that Faubus' statement that he would not obstruct integration orders was insufficiently firm.

Faubus said the compromise proposal, worked out with help of four Southern governors, asked him to surrender what he called "my discretionary powers as governor."

"Now they (the Army) may come in and take over my discretionary powers, but on my own volition will I surrender those powers. I haven't given them up. They have taken them over."

The governor indicated that "discretionary powers" in his terms meant how much force the National Guard, for instance, would be ordered by Faubus to use in maintaining order.

He claimed the federal government wants "complete and unconditional surrender" from him.

Eisenhower said two circumstances could justify withdrawal of the soldiers.

Around World Weekly Gross $1.2 Million

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A lesson in economics by Prof. Mike Todd, delivered on the run, you might say, since that's the way you find him.

It started at his studio office, where he spoke out the window to passing celebrities in between phone calls to France, England, Hawaii and New York.

The matter of economics arose from a printed report that his take from "Around the World in 80 Days" is $480,000 a week.

Absolutely false, he said, bristling. The figure is much too low. "During a recent week," he declared, "the total gross for the picture was around $1,200,000. Our return from the picture never can go under 50 per cent."

"We are now open in 40 cities," Todd said, "and on Oct. 11, a convenient date it's the film's first anniversary—we'll be open in 35 more. At Christmas, I think it will be playing in 100 locations. The picture has closed down in two cities, and then from extraneous circumstances."

"So far the domestic take has been 16 million. On this basis, I think the estimates of a 50 million gross are in error. A hundred million is more like it."

The producer remarked that he was forced into such prosperity. When he needed $900,000 badly to finish the picture, he offered a distributor 16 per cent of the profits for a loan. The firm declined, preferring to be repaid in cash.

When Victor Young died, Todd picked up the rights to the composer's music company. The result, the "Around the World" album blossomed forth as a top seller, yielding Todd another $200,000 a year.

Todd has blown many other millions, and I asked him if he could do it again.

"I don't think so," he said as he lathered his face for a shave.

"There's so much coming in now that it takes even my ability to spend."

At this point, Liz awoke from a nap and stumbled into the room in a short nightgown. For the record: Yes, she even looks gorgeous just awakened and with her hair in curlers.

"I'm doing my bit for the future," she commented. "I'm seeing that the money goes into diamonds, cars, etc. Things we can't touch later."

The National Fire Protection Association, sponsors of the annual event, urge you to check your home against this Home Fire Hazard Chart prepared by the Salt Lake City Fire Department. a Talent Running Talent Marathon

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Martin has one of television's oddest assignments—running a non-stop talent marathon.

As casting director for CBS-TV, Martin steers a weekly audition operation which gives a chance to 3,000 or so eager singers, dancers, comics and actors each year.

There is no screening process no one to know in order to receive an invitation to the blue-walled studio where hearings are held.

"If a person has a burning desire to be heard, is persistent enough and has something to offer, he will be heard," says Martin.

"That 'something' need not be very remarkable."

Among those who have come through the CBS audition room are Carol Burnett who rocketed to success singing about John Foster Dulles and Jonathan Winters, Eva Marie Saint Rita Gam and late James Dean.

"Any system 'that just tries to bring a little order' into the talent business" is susceptible to error, Martin goodnaturedly concedes.

"A few years back a young actor tried out and got one of the worst markings ever scored," he recalls. "He did all right later on though. His name was Kirk Douglas."

Sunday School Lesson

St. Paul as a Letter Writer
By WILLIAM E. GILROY, B.D.
An important thing to consider in studying the life and work of Paul, the Apostle, is that the record of his work and travels in the Book of the Acts should be read in connection with the letters that he wrote to the churches that he established.

The incidents in the Acts throw considerable light on the Epistles, while the Epistles emphasize the nature of life and fellowship in the churches.

When one reads the Epistle to the Philippians it is worth while to remember that it was in Philippi that Paul and Silas experienced the imprisonment and deliverance recorded in Acts 16. It was there, also, that Paul had his first effective contact in Europe when he obeyed the Macedonian call (Acts 16:9). There, too, he met Lydia, the "seller of purple," the first recorded Christian convert in Europe, and among those whom Paul commended in Philippians 4:3.

Many passages in that brief Epistle of four chapters have a deep and intimate note of Christian comradeship and aspiration. Consider such passages as 1:7-21; 2:12-18; 3:7-16; and 4:4-13.

Why did Paul write the longest of his two Epistles to the church at Corinth? There is not much, in length, about Corinth in the Book of Acts, but what is there (Acts 18) is of the utmost importance and significance. Among other things, it states that Paul stayed there for a year and a half, and possibly even longer (verses 11 and 18) — an impressive matter concerning one who traveled much from place to place.

That year and a half must have made very real to Paul many matters with which the Epistles deal; matters of controversy, of conduct and adjustment in a pagan and corrupt environment, matters such as one would have no conception of from reading an Epistle like that to the Philippians.

If the divisions that have cursed the Christian church did not begin at Corinth they were at least well marked there — those who said "I am of Paul" and "I am of Apollos," and "I am of Christ" (1 Corinthians 1:12). The rebuke that Paul administered to those divisive ones might well be given heed by sectarians of our own time.

The problems of conduct and of discipline that arose were also acute. Some involved gross immorality of a sort that seems strange in a small community of converts to a Christianity so demanding in its morality and devotion to the Master.

Yet problems and discrepancies could easily arise in so pagan an environment as Corinth, especially among those who may have been attracted to the new religion more by novelty than its purity.

Sexual immorality breaks out in strange places and strange ways, and the church at Corinth was by no means exceptional, much as one might wish it were not so.

I think it must be evident that much as some of these things were emphasized at Corinth they were present elsewhere, and much that Paul wrote was intended for a wider circle.

Corinth was on the great lines of travel and trade between east and west. What was said to, and about, Corinth undoubtedly became known more widely.

Police Union Law Ruled Illegal

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Chancellor Murray O. Reed says he has ruled unconstitutional a 1957 state law which made policemen belonging to labor unions ineligible to serve in a police department.

The act was challenged by officers of Little Rock's Police man's Local 1377.

Judge Reed yesterday said attorneys were preparing a decree which would make permanent a temporary injunction which Reed granted last June 13. The injunction prohibited Police Chief Marvin Polls from carrying out his order that all Little Rock policemen sign an oath that they were not union members, or forfeit all pay.

Polls testified on July 26 that when "membership in any organization causes any distrust on the part of the public, we're better off out of it." He said the prestige of his department had been "hurt" by a $600 contribution police union members gave to a strike fund during the Capitol Transit Co. strike here in 1955.

Reed's decision agreed with a March 30 opinion of Atty. Gen.

PARISIAN MARKETING PROBLEM—Pondering the mass of humanity buying and selling in Paris' famed market place of "Les Halles" is French economist Daniel Barrere. Although tourists customarily make this bustling market one of their must-see stops, the tumult and confusion makes life more difficult for the average native, Barrere thinks. He would prefer to see Les Halles moved to an outlying district to ease complicated traffic and parking problems. Its site is in the heart of the city.

DOROTHY DIX

Trade In Selfish Charming For Dependable Nice Guy

Dear Dorothy Dix: I've been married 25 years to the handsomest, most wonderful man there is. We've always had a most happy life; in fact I've never had the slightest complaint until now. Late-ly, I notice he eyes every young girl he meets. They always stare back at him (like I said, he's very handsome), but of course as I'm around he can do nothing about it. I know he works around a lot of women, too. There's nothing in particular that I can pin anything on; he's always at home evenings, he isn't spending extra money or anything. He vows he loves only me, so why am I doubtful?

T. O.
Dear T. O.: I think you're going out of your way to borrow trouble. If "looking" is the worst fault your husband has, be thankful. And as for girls looking at him — that's a penalty you pay for having a movie star-type husband.

Instead of watching like a lynx for your husband to spot a pretty blonde, do some of the trail-blazing yourself. When you see a cute chick approaching, let out with, "Oh, Horace, isn't she a dream?" And Horace will take one look at her and two at you.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am only 11 years old but I am as mature as a 15-year-old, emotionally and physically. I'm in 7th grade and I'd like to earn some money. What can I do without violating child labor laws?

VINIE
Dear Vinie: If you are as competent as a 15-year-old, you might persuade someone to give you a job baby sitting. This is very responsible work, but perhaps you can handle it. If you'd like to prove your ability, send for my leaflet, "You're In Charge," which outlines the qualifications and duties of a baby sitter. It will be of help to prospective sitters and their employers. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

You might also offer your services to harassed mothers of young children. You could dust, iron, perhaps or watch babies while their mothers are busy in the house. Hope you can start a bank account soon.

Dear Dorothy Dix: On Sunday, last week, an undertaker called at the house for my body. I'm still very much alive, but getting burned up over the practical jokes played by one member of our family. He delights in tricks of this sort. How can we go about getting him to stop?

GEORGIANNA
Dear Georgianna: The only cure for a practical joker is a big dose of his own medicine, especially if you can make it cost him money. Get together with other annoyed members of the family and figure out a stunt.

It has been said that a pun is the lowest form of humor. I think it should be practical joking. The prankster isn't funny at all; he's inconsiderate, selfish, egotistical and sadistic. Cure your relative and save the world from one man's stupidity.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I keep a budget and in order to be systematic about it, I write the price of each item I buy on the package at the time of purchase. This is for my records only, but I've noticed the manager of the store where I deal regard the operation suspiciously. Now when I go to the store I notice that the checker pays close attention to the contents of my basket and it seems to me she's casting a shadow on my integrity. My good name is very precious to me, and I'm afraid she will gossip outside and give people a false impression. DISTRESSED
Dear Dorothy: You're suffering from a minor persecution complex and you'd better get rid of it before it develops into something serious. For one thing, any

Rice Farmer Dies From Injuries

WYNNE, Ark. (AP) — A 45-year-old rice farmer died in a hospital here last night of injuries received when his car rammed the rear of a log truck.

He was Bob Holmes of nearby Fair Oaks. State Trooper Fred Beech said the collision happened yesterday near Fair Oaks as the truck was turning right off U.S. Highway 64. Both vehicles were headed east.

Beech said no one else was seriously hurt.

or Europeanized population, and the other for the Arabs. But the European house hold the major powers that the French government itself did not retain and the Arabs finally walked out.

The crawling months of terror and sudden death have hardened emotions on both sides. Neighboring Tunisia and Morocco are independent of France now, and siding with the nationalist rebels. The French are determined not to lose Algeria. Months more of fighting appear in prospect.

Both Sides in Algeria Rap Home Rule

ALGIERS (AP) — For almost three years — since November 1954 — France has been struggling to stamp out a nationalist rebellion in Algeria apparently led and directed by Arabs who owe most of their military training and education to France.

An accurate death toll after 35 months of sudden terrorist raids, pitched battles and countless lesser engagements is hard to come by. Casualty reports are frequently inaccurate or do not get to the newspapers.

The emotional toll of the long-bloody fight in this torn North African country between Tunisia on the east and Morocco on the west was pointed up this week when the French National Assembly in Paris withheld its support from a premier committed to do something to end it.

Premier Maurice Bourgès-Maunoury proposed a home rule bill for Algeria which looked forward to an eventual grant of partial self-rule.

The proposal aroused Frenchmen more than any other in years. Protests rained in on the National Assembly. A well-organized lobby by representing the million and a half Frenchmen who live in Algeria also made itself felt.

The rebels also rejected the plan, because it did not give full independence immediately.

Underlining the French protests was the passionate belief that Algeria is French — and must remain French. The Europeans in Algeria feared they would be submerged by the territory's nine million Arabs.

The Assembly voted against Bourgès-Maunoury's proposal, which he made an issue of confidence, and thus turned out France's 23rd post-war government.

In Algeria itself, where some Arabs reportedly are despairing of eventual success against the French, the rebellion has enveloped the entire country. Opinions vary as to how many of the Arabs really support it or how successful it has been.

It has been successful enough however, to tie down almost a half-million French soldiers, weakening France's position in the NATO defense line and bringing the French treasury to the brink of bankruptcy.

Essentially, France's problem in Algeria is to raise the living standards and political status of the Arab majority and retain or regain their loyalty — and at the same time satisfy the European minority which has lived in Algeria for generations and dominates the country's political life and economy which it chiefly built.

Behind this is a determination to safeguard such vital French interests as the huge, recently discovered Sahara oil reserve in southern Algeria.

One factor which had much to do with the outbreak of the rebellion was the so-called "Law of 1947." It provided for eventual complete integration of Algeria into France, with full and equal rights for Algerians who helped liberate the homeland in World War II.

As a stopgap it set up an Algerian Assembly, a semi-legislature of two houses, one for the European

Roast, Ham Good Buys in Some Areas

By The Associated Press

Chuck roast, smoked ham and turkey will be priced to catch the housewife's eye this weekend in many parts of the nation.

Beef prices are backing off a bit from their recent high level, one chain meat expert said. This would account for the popularity of low-priced chuck roast — and hamburger — among the week's meat offerings. Sirloin prices, on the other hand, are reported anywhere from 8 cents a pound lower to 4 cents a pound higher.

Bargains in smoked ham are a forerunner of pork price cuts expected later this fall as supplies increase. Pork chops are from 2 to 6 cents a pound cheaper in some places.

Chicken prices, too, are reported more reasonable at 65 cents a pound in some areas.

Turkeys have been low priced for some time and are likely to stay that way. Supplies are again at record levels, topping last year's previous record by 6 per cent with a flock of about 81 million birds. Storage stocks also are at record levels.

Eggs are reported a few cents higher in some regions, while fryers are somewhat less expensive generally.

Vegetables in the outstanding buy category this week include potatoes, onions, green cabbage where it's available from nearby growing areas, and nearby peppers.

The careful shopper also can get good buys in Western egg bags, carrots, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, and yellow and green squash.

Cauliflower celery and sweet potatoes are at moderate levels, while snap beans are somewhat higher this week.

Apples continue to show attractive prices, as is customary at this time of year. The sweet cherry crop 43 per cent higher than 1956's poor crop.

Refuses to Place Name on Ballot

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Circuit Judge Guy Amster has refused to order Asst. City Atty. R. W. Bob Laster's name be put on the Nov. 5 general election as the only candidate for Little Rock traffic judge.

Amster in effect held yesterday that the office was not up for balloting. Laster said the ruling would be appealed.

The incumbent traffic judge is John L. Sullivan who was appointed to the position by Gov. Orval Faubus last Feb. 2.

Laster, who unexpectedly filed as a candidate for the job, said he interpreted state elections laws to mean that the job was up for election because Judge Sullivan was appointed to the post.

He Knows Who He Is Backing

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A boy about 14, wearing an army-type helmet, drove a motorbike in front of Little Rock Central High this morning behind a National Guard jeep. Carefully inscribed on his helmet was one word: "Faubus."

Today's also are good buys among the fruits.

Valencia oranges and lemons from California are fairly good buys this week, produce men say. Florida oranges and grapefruit, pushing their regular season, are somewhat more plentiful but still at high cost levels.

Somebody's Track

— was it yours? Did you know that your footprint identifies you almost as well as your fingerprint. The law uses it to trap the lawless. God uses it to show you where you were when you became conscience smitten. Your tracks tell on you... they give you away. You were where you should not have been and your tracks prove it. Your son was following your tracks when he got into serious trouble. Mr., you write either a good story or a bad one by the tracks you make. Why not resolve to walk toward the church next Sunday... any church... for they are all better than you. Every church in this community offers you a place to work, an opportunity to help others, and the privilege to make tracks for God. Then why not turn your tracks into a testimonial for the Lord, to be read of men, by printing them on the way that leads to church every Sunday.
